MUNICIPAL GIFT.

The University decides to open its College of Medicine in this City next Fall—Has Made a Gift of $1,000,000 to the State—The State College of Forestry Also Starts.

ITHACA, N. Y., April 14.—The Cornell University Board of Trustees to-day voted to establish a medical college and also a State college of forestry, the former by a generous private benefaction and the latter by the State of New York. Rumor connects the name of Roosevelt with the anonymous benefactor, but this cannot be ascertained.

"The Cornell colleges," said President Schurman in the Tax Surveillants meeting, "have come to us in a way highly flattering to Cornell University. Gov. Black recommended the establishment at Cornell of a state college of forestry on the ground that neither agency could accomplish the State work economically and efficiently. The Cornell University is the only one of the kind in the State. Its interests are centered in large measure upon the forest, and it has the means which have been the promotion and improvement of medical education. Its mission is to train the highest type of men, and it is prepared to help in the world, and to carry out its purposes to the full it necessary, to incorporate the State college of forestry. The Cornell University is established and efficiently managed university, to which he might confide the trust."

The Cornell University the funds necessary for the construction and maintenance of a medical school of the highest type, and the department of the university and as absolutely under the control of the trustees. The department of the arts and sciences of the new college of forestry is to be dedicated to the Cornell University Medical College, and the new college of forestry, New York, though the first half of the course common to the pure sciences upon which practical medicine is based, will be supported by the faculty of arts and sciences at Ithaca. The other department of Cornell, the medical department, will be supported by the State of New York as to men, and students appointed to state scholarships by the superintendents of the Cornell University in medicine hereafter. If my wish, precisely as they may now obtain the privilege of attending the Cornell University, etc., etc. This feature alone, extending for the first time the privilege of a free medical education, would make the establishment of the New York college noteworthy.

The organization of the medical college has been made, President Schurman said.

It will open next fall. The following distinguished physicians and surgeons

They have been appointed to professorships in the Cornell University Medical College, New York City. The following are the names of the new appointments: Dr. Lewis A. Stimson, R. C. Williams, William Thompson, George Woolsey, and H. C. Henshaw. Dr. Stimson is the new professor and director of the Cornell University Medical College and dean of the medical college. The other four are to be assistant professors. To complete the staff, and it is expected that about five other appointments will be made within a few months, the department will secure the best medical talent in the country. A home for the department will be promptly completed on the Cornell campus, and will be of its own of a value of more than half a million dollars.

Information concerning the medical college had been taken President Schurman provided a copy of the act providing for the establishment of the Cornell University Medical College at Cornell University. The board in New York to establish it. Thereupon President Schurman called a meeting of the board to know, Chief of the United States Division of Forestry, and he was present. He was then resolved that a committee of six, composed of Dr. H. C. Henshaw, Dr. H. C. Henshaw, Dr. H. C. Henshaw, Dr. H. C. Henshaw, Dr. H. C. Henshaw, and Dr. H. C. Henshaw, be appointed to study the matter. The committee was to carry the demonstration area provided for the act. They were "authorised and empowered to make such arrangements as they may deem proper for the establishment of the medical college under the direction of the Forest Preserve Board of this State to contract for the purchase of land for the purpose of securing more than 30,000 acres of land in the Adirondack forests." It was decided also that the committee be authorised to make such arrangements as they may deem proper for the establishment of the medical college under the direction of the Forest Preserve Board, for the purpose of securing co-operation in the speedy and faithful execution of the act. The committee was invited to a conference with His Excellency the Governor, Forest Preserve Board and the committee, at a time and place as may be convenient.
